Package Relief Plan For Refugees In Russia To Cost $1,000,000

Thousands of packages of food and clothing are crossing the Soviet-Iranian border into Asiatic Russia each month in a unique relief project devised to relieve the widespread suffering caused by the second World War. The packages bear the names and addresses of individuals who were given refuge and sanctuary in Russia when they fled from Poland, Latvia, and Lithuania before the advance of the Nazi armies and they represent the results of months of tireless investigation and planning on the part of a major American Jewish relief agency, the Joint Distribution Committee.

Details of this package relief plan were made public by Joseph C. Hyman, Executive Vice-Chairman of the Joint Distribution Committee. Mr. Hyman announced that $775,000 has already been allocated for this project for 1943, with the possibility that actual costs, including packing and shipping, may run to $1,000,000.

Tea, soap, woolen and cotton underclothing, and medical supplies, purchased in India; shoes from South Africa; sugar, flour, vegetable fats, peas, dried fruits, from Iran; clothing and medical supplies from Palestine, go into these packages. The package shipments are expected to reach a rate of 5,000 each month by the end of this year. The basic supplies, garnered after months of diligent search throughout the Near and Middle East by representatives of the Joint Distribution Committee, are [illegible] by relatives in the United States and by organizations there and in Palestine concerned with the welfare of affiliated groups. Among the hundreds of thousands of East European Jews known to be in Asiatic Russia are numerous rabbis and scholars from the famous Yeshivoth of Lithuania and Poland, many of whom are among the beneficiaries of the package plan.

Numerous appeals for assistance to these refugees, Mr. Hyman revealed, have come to the United States. The spread of the war and its demands upon shipping, materials and food supplies in all parts of the world have hitherto made it difficult to bring them any substantial assistance. Last year, the Joint Distribution Committee, in cooperation with the Polish Government-in-Exile, shipped them large quantities of medical sup-

Withdraw White Paper, Zionists Demand

The opening of Palestine to Jewish refugees and its reconstitution as a Jewish commonwealth were demanded at a meeting in Carnegie Hall, New York, under the auspices of the Zionist Organization of America in cooperation with other Jewish organizations, on the twenty-sixth anniversary of the Balfour Declaration.

Under the Chamberlain White Paper of 1939, immigration of Jews in Palestine was restricted and would cease entirely next April.

Wendell L. Willkie sent a message saying the United Nations must prevent the closing of Palestine, either temporarily or permanently, as a homeland for the Jews. "The policy of the White Paper mirrors the era of appeasement which gave it birth, and, as that philosophy has been discredited, so must the White Paper be abrogated," he wrote. "The extent of Jewish immigration to Palestine must be measured by the needs of the Jewish people and by their ability to develop their homeland in accordance with the international covenant made with them."

Messages from Governor Dewey, Robert F. Wagner and Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, were read.

A resolution appealing to President Roosevelt "that all appropriate action be taken to ensure the withdrawal in its entirety" of the Palestine White Paper "with its unjustifiable restrictions on immigration and land settlement" was adopted.

The speakers included Dorothy Thompson, columnist; Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, chairman of the General Executive Committee of the Zionist Organization of America, presided.

JEWISH DEAD OF LAST WAR HONORED BY GIRAUD AND DE GAULLE AT ALGIERS

Generals de Gaulle and Henri-Honore Giraud made a joint appearance at an old Jewish cemetery, where they honored the dead of the last war and attended a memorial service for Dr. Samuel Charles Aboulker, distinguished Algerian physician.

The Rev. Dr. Maurice Eisenbeth, chief rabbi of Algiers, officiated.

General Giraud's presence was extremely gratifying to Algerian Jews, some of whom had not forgotten that it was Giraud who revoked the Cremieux decree, which was declared again in effect as of Oct. 21.

At the same time it ought to be pointed out that all diplomatic sources felt that General Giraud's action last March was taken during the time of great political confusion and reflected the military necessity of appeasing a large majority of Moslems among the troops who were commanded by Giraud rather than the slightest suggestion of anti-Semitism on the general's part.

CHAPLAINS DEDICATE U.S. MILITARY CEMETERY IN JERUSALEM

Chaplains of three denominations, Protestant, Catholic and Jewish, officiated at the dedication of the first United States military cemetery in the Holy Land. Inaugurated by Maj.-Gen. Ralph M. Royce, commanding general of the United States forces in the Middle East, the cemetery lies on the slopes of the Judean foothills facing the Holy City.

The terraced graveyard, last resting place of American soldiers who lost their lives in the Levant, is covered with lush grass and its graveled paths are lined with shrubs and flowers. In the centre a stone monument bears a bronze cross of the American Eagle, while the American flag flies from the hilltop. Three tiers of eight graves each totaling twenty-four are filled.

In his dedicatory speech, which included quotations from Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, General Royce paid warm tribute to those who have died in service. "This ground in which they lie is rich in history and tradition," he said. "Here are the roots of our civilization. Here is the cradle of our religion, whether we be Protestant, Catholic or Jew."

Boston Bishop Sees German Pattern In Beatings Of Jewish Boys

Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, of the Boston area of the Methodist Church, denounced the alleged beating of Jewish boys as an apparent expression of incipient Fascism and, in a statement, demanded, "who is flooding the nation with anti-Semitic literature, and why?"

Declaring that "the beating of Jewish boys is not the work of hoodlums," Bishop Oxnam expressed hope that Jews, Catholics and Protestants could unite "in demanding that these beatings stop and that steps be taken to discover and destroy the dangerous forces that lie back of them."

The Bishop's statement followed the placing of charges before Governor Leverett Saltonstall that Jews had been made the victims of ruffianism over a period of months in the Boston area. The Governor, acting upon a petition of which Bishop Oxnam was one of the signers, has appointed five prominent citizens of various faiths to an advisory committee on anti-Semitism.

"The beating of Jewish boys must stop," the statement said. "The beaters must be apprehended and punished. The beating of any boys by gangs is bad enough at any time. The beating of boys of a particular race is worse. But the real menace lies in the apparent fact that these beatings are an expression of incipient Fascism, that they follow a similar pattern, and that, in one case, at least, the beaters wore black shirts.

"Who is flooding the nation with anti-Semitic literature, and why? Who finances these movements? Why is it that the anti-Semitic leaders now under Federal indictment have attacked such religious organizations as the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, the Methodist Church and other Protestant religious bodies? Why has Franco, the Fascist dictator of Spain, been extolled?"

Bishop Oxnam, in an interview with "The Boston Traveler," said that the recent outbreaks of

Reinhardt Rites Simple, Attended By Stage Leaders

Funeral services for Max Reinhardt, theatrical producer and director who died in his home in New York, were held in the presence of a small group of relatives and friends in the Temple Emanu-El. Rabbi Stephen S. Wise officiated.

Approximately [illegible] persons crowded into the temple and another 100 stood outside during the services.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise officiated. In keeping with Mr. Reinhardt's wish, the rites were simple and lasted only thirty minutes.

"Max Reinhardt's word, the word of inhibition, forbids me, forbids any other to utter any word of praise or even of evaluation at this moment," he said. "Max Reinhardt, the artist, was right—a man's life must be his eulogium. This man who has wrought things of beauty, this man who has created, requires no human praise."

He noted that the seventy-year-old director, who became an American citizen in 1940, had made a "new home and helped to rear shrines of beauty in a new world." He gave thanks for Mr. Reinhardt's translation of the "beauty of holiness into the holiness of beauty."

In a front pew sat Mrs. Helene Thimig Reinhardt, Mr. Reinhardt's wife, and two sons, Sergeant Gottfried Reinhardt, of the Army Signal Corps, and Wolfgang Reinhardt, a film producer. They are the children of a former marriage to Elsa Heims, which ended in divorce.

Near them sat two nieces, the Misses Eva and Greta Rosenberg; a nephew, Hans Rosenberg, and Lili Darvas, Eleanora von Mendelssohn and Adrienne Gessner, actresses who were friends of the Director. Among old associates present were Franz J. Hoesh, Meyer W. Weisgal, Ernst Lothar, Mrs. Erich Rice and Mrs. Lina des Benaudes.

The entire company of "Rosalinda," current Broadway production of the Reinhardt-Korngold version of Johann Strauss's operetta, "Die Fledermaus," was present. Mrs. Lytle Hull, president, and Mrs. Yolanda Mero-Irion, general manager, represented the New Opera Company, producers of "Rosalinda."

Others present were Jan Masaryk, Foreign Minister of the Czechoslovak government in exile; Sholom Asch, Fayvel Molnar, Norman Bel Geddes, Oscar Straus, Robert Stolz, S. N. Behrman, Sam Jaffe, Mrs. Arturo Toscanini, Mrs. Thomas Mann and her daughter, Miss Erika Mann.

Also Mr. and Mrs. William S. Paley, Mrs. Dorothy Thompson Kopf, Richard Beer-Hofmann, Mr. and Mrs. Jan Hovstein, Count and Countess Richard N. Coudenhove-Kalergi, Leonora Corbett, Tilly Losch, Carl Veltmueller, Emanuel List, Stella Adler and Bruno Eisner.

The Adolf Busch String Quartette played Beethoven's adagio from "The Quartette of the Harps," and Mrs. Busch played Bach's "Sarabande," a violin solo. A. W. Binder played "The Passion of Matthew" on the organ.

Rabbi Jacob X. Cohen, of the Free Synagogue, officiated at the Jews Of Austria Wiped Out By Germans

[illegible] Germans, but sabotage, aided by foreign workers is increasing. Austrians generally know that Germany is losing the war.

These reports reached London through Austrian underground channels to fill in further a picture of conditions in the country. For two years the Germans have been killing Austrian Jews or sending them to eastern European ghettos, reports said, and almost all Vienna's 150,000 have disappeared.

Occasionally a Jew may be seen in a Vienna street, thin, underfed, with ragged clothing and split shoes, always wearing sewed to the left breast pocket a big, yellow Star of David inscribed "Jude."

Jews are arrested at midnight or in the early morning hours. The green police trucks take them to an empty synagogue, used as a transit station, where there are tightly crowded rows of straw sacks for beds on the stone floor.

Thence the Jews are taken in cattle cars or ancient unheated passenger coaches to the ghettos of eastern Poland, Latvia or occupied Russia. Reports suggest that many die on the way or after arrival.

Apartments and shops previously used by Jews have been seized by the Germans, whom the Viennese have named "white Jews," reports say. A reliable informant said that the Austrians, who once accepted the persecution of Jews with relative apathy, were now so horrified at the result that, despite the danger, they aided, as far as they could, the few Jews left.

The Allies' decision at Moscow to declare publicly in favor of a free and independent Austria was welcomed at Algiers by a committee of refugees that has been quietly working for some time.

The leaders naturally prefer not to have their names mentioned, but they have an office and are proceeding along the usual organizational lines. There are at least 4,000 Austrian refugees there, as well as more than 1,000 in the French forces.

Use Your Permit Fairly

The permits granted by the Quebec Liquor Commission for the purchase of distilled liquors allow the holders a specified quantity. This quantity has been determined after the closest examination of stocks in hand and probabilities affecting future stocks. It does not mean that every holder is expected to purchase that full quantity. It is a maximum and not an average. Only in special circumstances should it be purchased. Otherwise the basis on which it was determined will be upset.

When the Quebec Liquor Commission was faced with the necessity of assuring a fair supply of alcoholic beverages for all, it based its issuance of permits on the number of regular customers served by the Commission, and also upon average personal purchase.

Many persons, however, have purchased for some time, and are continuing to purchase, the limit allowed, which even in the days of non-rationed purchasing they did not ever need in these amounts. It is obvious there are some of our citizens who are hoarding small stocks of alcoholic beverages — others who are consuming more than they ever did before — and still others who are making purchases for their acquaintances.

The full result of such tactics, which are essentially unfair, is now beginning to be felt. Shortages which would not now be noticeable had all our citizens abided by the regulations are causing annoyance and inconvenience to a great many. The resale of beverages held by those who have purchased stocks they do not need has created a black market.

These are matters for which only a small group of citizens can be blamed, but unless stopped the inevitable consequence will be that the many must be penalized for the faults of the few.

You can do your part in helping to ease the present situation and prevent, as well, the possibility of a still lower ration of alcoholic beverages, by following these simple rules of good neighbourliness and fair dealing:—

1. Purchase only what you need, and keep below the maximum quantity allowed.
2. Do not let anyone else use your permit. It is not transferable.
3. Do not make purchases for others. They have their own permits or can obtain them.

Duplessis Strikes At Liberals Through Attack On Alleged Immigration Plan Of Zionists

Opposition Leader Maurice Duplessis, addressing a political rally in Ste. Claire on November 7, declared that a plan had been initiated by the "International Zionist Brotherhood" to establish in Quebec farms 100,000 Jewish refugees from Central Europe.

Mr. Duplessis showed his audience a photographic copy of what he said was a letter from the Zionist organization to Rabbi J. Schwartz of Montreal. It was signed by H. L. Rosovitch, Quebec local No. 6, Montreal and dated October 14, 1943.

The letter quoted by Mr. Duplessis, stated that at a special meeting of the general committee at New York, Oct. 12, it was decided that the organization "would aid financially all Liberal candidates who would agree openly or secretly to support in the House of Commons a Government plan to establish on the farms of the province of Quebec 100,000 Jewish refugees from Central Europe.

Mr. Duplessis—leader of the Union Nationale—added that the letter contained a paragraph naming "certain political adversaries," but that the charges were so serious that he wished to obtain further information before making the matter public, "so as not to be unfair to those concerned."

"These people seem to know our political opponents," he said, "for they speak of an agreement open or secret. In other words, the Liberal candidates may make public statements to the contrary while engaging themselves secretly, in furthering the plan."

The Opposition Leader said he was curious to know whether the Federal Government had a definite plan with regard to Jewish immigration. He quoted a news dispatch which stated that Hon. T. A. Crerar, Resources Minister, "speaks of admitting to the country a number of immigrants." He added that other statements had been made recently, "in the same sense."

Rabbi Jesse Schwartz, executive director of the Zionist Organization of Canada, issued the following statement:

"At a meeting in St. Claire held on November 7, Mr. Maurice Duplessis is reported to have shown to his audience a photographic copy of a letter which he said was sent to Rabbi J. Schwartz, of Montreal, by H. L. Rosovitz, Quebec Local No. 6, Montreal, and dated October 14, 1943. That letter purports to refer to a campaign launched by the 'International Zionist Brotherhood' to settle 100,000 Jewish refugees from Central Europe on Quebec farms.

"I have received no such letter. There is no Quebec Local No. 6 nor does any other local exist. There is no individual by the name of H. L. Rosovitz in Montreal. The whole [illegible] is a fabrication palmed off on Mr. Duplessis by some irresponsible charlatan.

"The activities of the Zionist Organization of Canada are concerned exclusively with the immigration of Jews to Palestine. There is no organization denominated International Zionist Brotherhood. The work of the World Zionist Organization is international in scope but like all agents-provocateurs Mr. Duplessis is fond of giving the term international a sinister twist. In implementing the Zionist ideal of rebuilding the Jewish homeland in Palestine which goes back 2,000 years in Jewish history, the World Zionist Organization has branches in every country to enlist the support of the Jewish people on behalf of the fulfillment of Biblical prophecy and the restoration of Zion, for which every devout Jew prays daily. The work of the World Zionist Organization has received international recognition by the League of Nations and has been endorsed by 52 nations, including Canada, and by the unanimous resolution of the Congress of the United States. It has been encouraged by such outstanding leaders and statesmen as Winston Churchill, Lord Robert Cecil, Jan Smuts and President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

"If Mr. Duplessis considers himself a responsible leader, he should for the sake of his own reputation, produce the letter he presented to his audience in Ste. Claire, so as to be held up to the light of day and proven to be a foul forgery."

Challenging the authenticity of the alleged letter quoted by Mr. Duplessis, Maurice Hartt, K.C., the only Jewish member of the Legislature, declared in the course of a statement that "knowing Mr. Duplessis as I do, if ever there was a facsimile of the Reichstag fire, this is one, and I sincerely believe that Mr. Duplessis' sortie will meet with the same result as the provocators of the Reichstag fire.

"It would not be likely that the Zionist Organization intended to colonize Jews in the Province of Quebec, and that I would not be consulted, at least, to intervene for them, but it is the first time I heard of such a project.

"I know the aims of the Zionist Organization. I believe that every person in the world knows the aims of this organization, and that is to re-establish the Jews not in Canada or in any country in the world, but in Palestine. In fact, the aim of the Zionist Organization is to get together all the Jews from all over the world, if possible, and establish them in their own homeland.

"There are no such things as locals in the Zionist Organization, nor is the Zionist Movement a brotherhood, neither a secret lodge, nor a labor union. The Zionist Organization, as such, is non-political, and this is the first time in the history of its existence that any politician drew upon its activities for its purpose. It is true that its members individually have a right to belong to any political party but such politics cannot be brought into the Zionist Movement.

[illegible] Louis Fitch, a former vice-president of the Zionist Organization of Canada, and Mr. Duplessis were reciprocal in supporting each other, and Mr. Fitch was elected in 1938 under the banner of the Union Nationale. They have fraternized ever since, and they are still fraternizing, but this of course suited Mr. Duplessis' political purposes, and were he of the opinion that he could collect a few Jewish votes, he would promise to join the Zionist Organization himself.

"As a matter of fact, in an interview with the representative of the Jewish Eagle at the Mount Royal Hotel during the year 1938, he gave a statement to the Jewish press that he loves the Jewish people and is willing to do anything for their advancement. He repeated publicly at least twenty times during the election campaign of Mr. Fitch that the Jewish people are entitled to full representation, and that he respects the rights of minorities; of course, that was election time and the Jewish people had to be sold a bill of goods.

"I have written a special delivery letter asking Mr. Duplessis for a photostatic copy of the letter to which he referred at that meeting. I am curious to see if there is such a letter."

The Compulsory Education Law

For the first time, school children all over the Province of Quebec are at their desks under a compulsory education system.

The law, sponsored by the Godbout government, was adopted at the last session of the Legislature despite opposition which, obviously, was dictated more by a rash desire to play politics than by the willingness to display sound reasoning. Compulsory education for younger children is an accepted educational system today, and, as Premier Godbout said in his presentation of the law, Quebec cannot remain behind.

If there be sincere doubters over the desirability of compulsory education, it is likely that the post-war period will change their views. For this will be, more than ever before, an age of specialization; and primary education in Quebec merely lays a solid foundation for the children later to benefit by agricultural, technical or crafts schools. Instead of being thrown upon the world with a smattering of a few subjects, Quebec children will be equipped to tackle advanced subjects of their choice; and that is the road to success and independence. In the past, too many Quebec children have grown up ill-equipped to capitalize upon the native ability which is theirs.

It seems almost fantastic that Premier Godbout and his supporters should have had to fight for the adoption of the compulsory education law. It was approved by the province's highest educational authorities before it was presented to the Legislative Assembly. It was claimed, for many years, by educationists who said that Quebec's education system could never be called either truly modern or truly complete without such a law. And it was so direct in its appeal to logic that little but unadulterated politics could have dictated the very threadbare arguments which were heard against placing all Quebec children on an equal footing in primary education, and thus affording all Quebec children an equal start in life.

It is significant that, while there was much noise from Premier Godbout's [illegible] opponents [illegible] the law will be [illegible] On the other hand, Premier Godbout and his colleagues have not lost an opportunity to predict that the benefits of compulsory education would soon be apparent. Of course — and they will furnish one more answer to those who, for political reasons, always visualize Quebec as something different from the rest of the world.

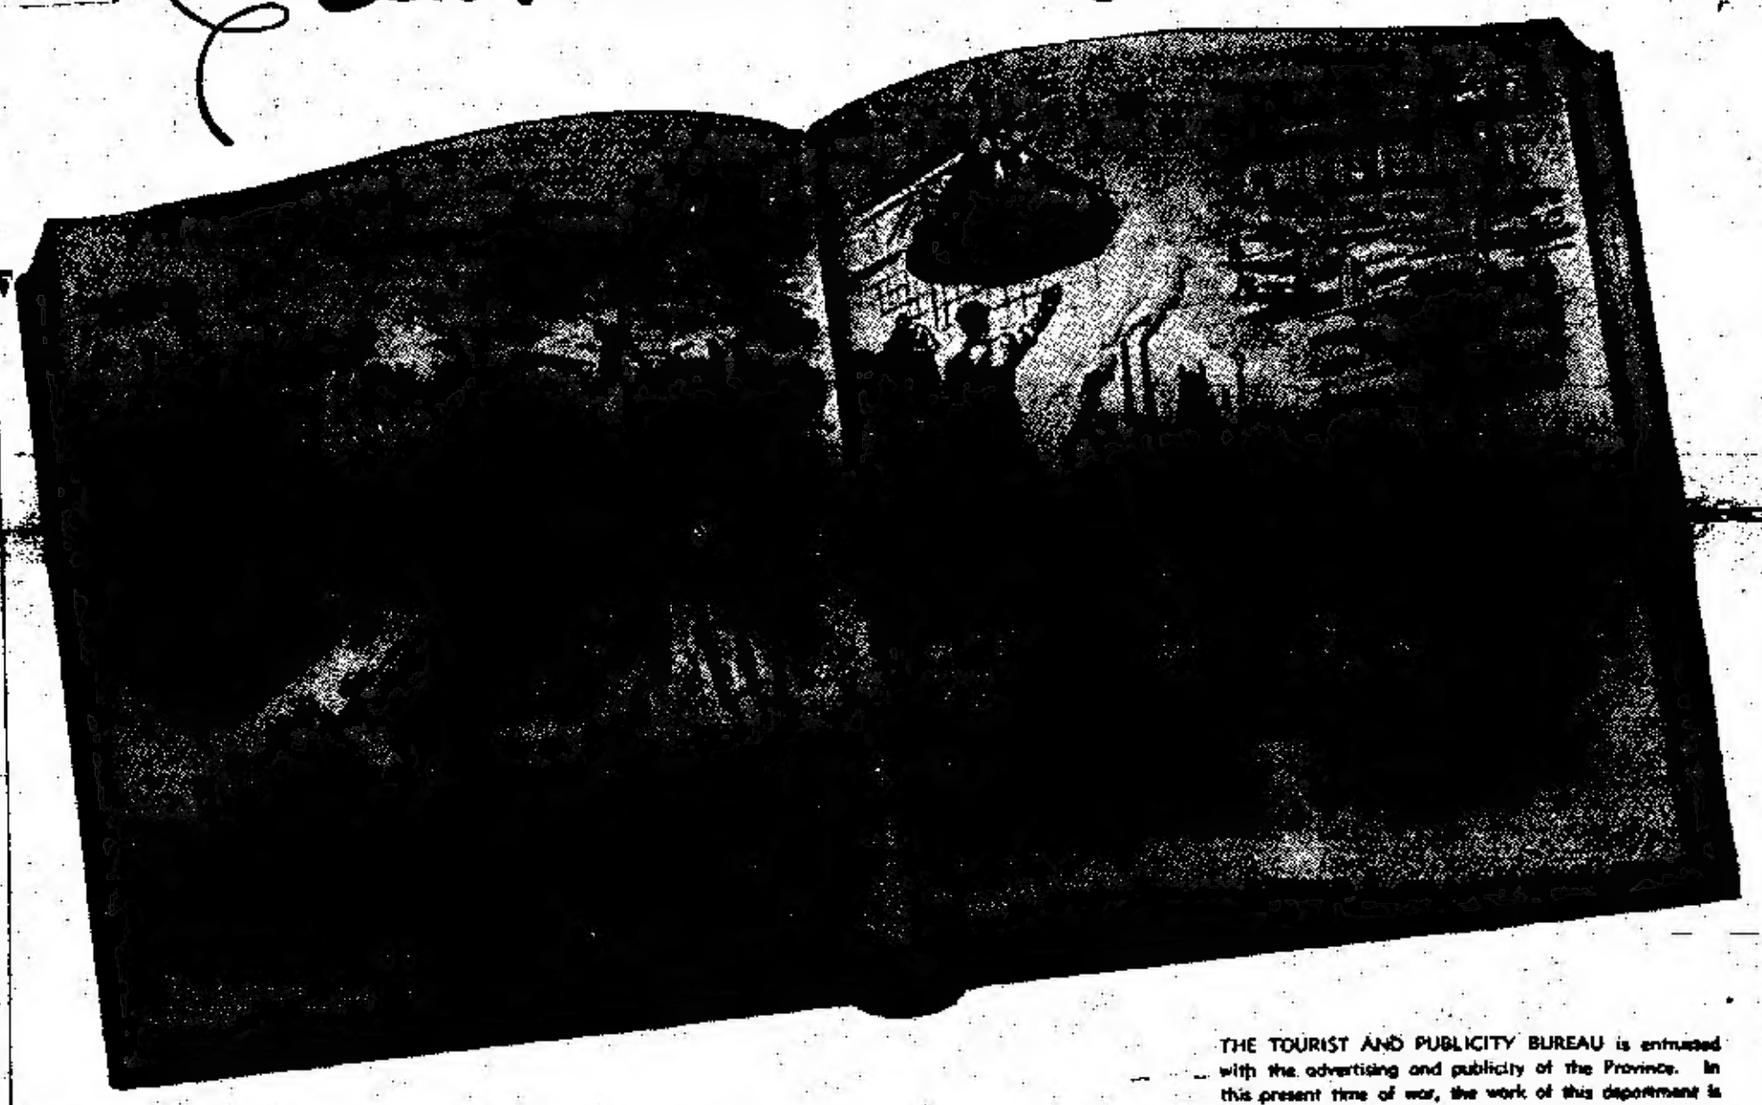
"SALADA" TEA

WRITING NEW PAGES IN THE BOOK OF HISTORY OF

La Province de Québec



FAMOUS to many thousands for its Old World hospitality and unspoiled way of life, La Province de Québec has added a bright new chapter to its 300-year-old history. A chapter of war . . .

The French Canadians who fought side by side with their English-speaking comrades at Dieppe and other world fronts are symbolic of the spirit of all our sons who are today serving Canada. For those at home are busy launching ships and building planes, producing munitions and equipment in an ever-increasing stream.

This year again many of our friends will not be able to visit the Province as freely as before the war. We will miss their company. Those who are fortunate enough to visit us on business are warmly welcome, as always. And to our visitors of former years — as well as those who look forward to discovering this grand old vacationland for the first time—we extend a hearty invitation to vacation with us in La Province de Québec when Victory has been won!

Through its executive departments of government, La Province de Québec has reflected its growing share in the war effort of Canada and the United Nations.

THE DEPARTMENT OF ROADS AND PUBLIC WORKS has concentrated during 1943 on the building and maintenance of important military and strategic highways in the Province.

THE DEPARTMENT OF LANDS AND FORESTS reports that the huge Crown forests of the Province are supplying pulp, paper and lumber industries in Canada and abroad, an essential link in power development, transportation, mining, and farming.

THE SECRETARIAT OF THE PROVINCE, through the Aid to Youth Service, is directing its efforts to provide trained and specialized labour for Canada at war.

THE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH has announced that during the past year our infant mortality has shown a marked drop, while the Province has also shown the lowest mortality record in fifteen years.

THE DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY, in war as in peace, has continued to give added impetus to the manifold trade relations of the Province.

THE DEPARTMENT OF MINES has witnessed a continued expansion in the production of strategic war minerals in the Province, and is exerting every effort to the end that their demand may be fulfilled.

THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT, in supervising the Province's finances, collecting Provincial Revenue, and controlling the budget, has passed a year of constant activity in service to a people devoting all its energies to the prosecution of war.

THE TOURIST AND PUBLICITY BUREAU is entrusted with the advertising and publicity of the Province. In this present time of war, the work of this department is devoted principally to telling the story of Québec's mighty war effort, and also cementing the goodwill already enjoyed between the people of this Province and their friendly neighbours to the South.

The Executive of La Province de Québec, in the effective direction and co-ordination of our governmental activities, has had close and constant experience of the Province's great and many-sided war work. Through the officers and heads of executive departments, it has implemented and accelerated our work in furnishing materials for war, men to the armed forces, and dollars for Victory through War Bonds and Certificates. An extensive plan has also been delineated for post-war development and reconstruction.

The Moscow Conference

The Moscow Conference of foreign ministers, just ended, marks, in a way, one of the decisive weeks of the war because of its diplomatic importance. The conference affirms the unbroken solidarity of the Allies, giving assurance of no separate peace between Russia and Germany and shows in outline a post-war pattern in co-operation.

Above all, the specific commitments made by the representatives in behalf of their respective governments is their affirmation to "the necessity of establishing at the earliest practical date a general international organization, based on the principle of the sovereign equality of all peace-loving states, and open to membership by all such states, large and small, for the maintenance of international peace and security." The commitment, because of its vagueness, perhaps out of present necessity, does not mean a new league of nations with an international police force for the maintenance of peace. The big four by this commitment resolve to co-operate through some sort of organization. But for the present it certainly does not mean a league of nations.

From a Jewish viewpoint the Moscow Conference statement warning the Nazis against atrocities and that the surrender of war criminals is to be a condition to the granting of an armistice to Germany, constitutes a most important declaration. This indicates that the Allies are resolved to do something real that might conceivably stop the butchering and murdering. The emphasis that the perpetrators of the atrocities will be brought back to the scene of their crimes, there to be judged and punished, should help much to mini[illegible] brutality of the Nazis. This is a warning that should [illegible] the foul criminals. This is the best form [illegible]

It is good to know that the Allies are on record now not to forget when Armistice comes to mete out justice to the evil-doers.

However, why has this Allied communique omitted any reference to Jews, the first and worst victims of Nazi atrocities? Since Hitler dared from the very first to single out the Jew, the Allies with great effectiveness in the Moscow declaration might have mentioned suffering Israel. Even as the Poles are mentioned and the Czechs, so the name of Jew, with much merit, should have been included.

But this pledge of the United Nations to bring the criminals to trial no doubt will go a long way to restrain the murderers of the defenseless Jewish populations. This is our hope!

Welcome, Rabbi Feinberg!

Holy Blossom Temple in Toronto, has called Rabbi Abraham L. Feinberg, of Denver, Colorado, to be its minister. We extend our very best wishes, both to Holy Blossom and Rabbi Feinberg and pray that this union of congregation and Rabbi prove pleasant and beneficial in the cause of Judaism.

Rabbi Feinberg, our esteemed colleague, we have known for the past two decades. We were contemporary students at the Hebrew Union College. In fact, we commenced our rabbinical studies at the same time, leaving our Ohio Valley homes for college on the same trains, Feinberg hailing from Bellaire, Ohio, and the writer from Steubenville, Ohio.

Rabbi Feinberg will find Canada a hospitable land. He will come to discover that the Dominion offers a wide field for him in spiritual leadership and in good works. In his own city of Toronto, he will find eager Jewish souls who are in need of the warmth of Judaism and the courage that Judaism can offer them in this critical hour of human history.

Rabbi Feinberg knows something of the classical Jewish home life. He was reared in the home of a "chazan," a cantor. That should serve him in good stead in a community where "Litvaks" play such an important role.

Welcome, friend and colleague, thrice welcome, and may your labours here bring to you and yours increased happiness. May the congregation of Holy Blossom support you with genuine loyalty and unbounded co-operation.

plies and hospital equipment while intensive study of means of bringing food and clothing relief into Soviet Asia, without strain upon shipping and transit facilities, was undertaken.

Harry Viteles and Charles Passman, American citizens resident in Palestine, made field trips on behalf of the Joint Distribution Committee throughout the Middle and Near East in search of available food and clothing stocks. The recent visit to Jerusalem of Dr. Joseph J. Schwartz, European Chairman of the Joint Distribution Committee, crystallized the program. Permanent headquarters of the package service will be set up this month in Teheran.

"Sometimes when people censure me,
I tell them without rumour
That for what it cost me to be free,
I might have had an anchor."

The vicious anti-Semitism in Greater Boston which has been exposed through the valuable crusading zeal of PM really began several years ago with the dissemination of coarse, abusive, and vulgar anti-Jewish literature of a libellous character to prepare the way for the actual violence which is now beginning to be investigated by Governor Saltonstall. Three years ago attacks on Jewish boys and girls living in the Dorchester section, where there are sixty thousand Jews, were already taking place. At that time an interfaith group of Catholics and Protestants was organized and sermons were preached against the assaults. They were held in check for a while but for the past fourteen months or so violence has been increasing under a shield of silence and an attitude of laissez faire on the part of the police who hear no evil and see no evil. The Governor of the state admitted that he has had "a rude awakening" but it was, of course, caused more by PM than by any sudden knowledge of what was going on.

The attitude of the official Jewish community of Boston with regard to this very menacing situation is interesting. In June, 1938, the Central Advisory Committee was formed "for the purpose of advising in and co-ordinating Jewish communal work in Boston." Translated into plainer English this probably means that the communal leaders were pretty scared by then, having been forced by events to the conclusion that nothing was to be gained and much might be lost by refusing to face the situation as it was, and decided to gather authenticated material on this prelude to pogrom.

Their material was intended for presentation to police and state authorities and was kept unpublicized until it should be ready. Meantime PM, with less regard for the formalities and the toes it might be stepping on, published affidavits in support of its charge of an anti-Semitic campaign of terrorism; of Christian Front and Coughlinite gangs damaging Jewish synagogues and stores, and beating Jews; and of silence on the part of the authorities in Boston and the press.

The attitude of official Jewry in Boston is reflected in the Jewish Advocate. "Until there is proof to the contrary," says the Advocate cautiously, "there is no reason for concluding that those in authority to enforce the peace and to bring offenders to justice have anything but the welfare of all of their citizens at heart. Nor should conclusions about any particular officials, members of the police force, or those over them, be made, unless such conclusions are inevitable after trials and hearings properly conducted in accordance with legal and administrative procedures afforded in such cases." Of the Central Advisory Committee the Jewish Advocate says: "Its attitude and restrained conduct cannot, in fairness, be construed as a hush-hush policy", which might be called the [illegible]

[illegible] published in Boston, which, for the cat and [illegible] way, its editor, slower on the trigger than PM, said: "The Monitor has been investigating anti-Jewish violence in Boston for many months. We did not print a comprehensive story because many responsible leaders in the Jewish community were grievously disturbed at the prospect of publicity, fearing it would do more harm than good." Once the situation was revealed to the world by PM, the Monitor urged action, and the same Governor who had ordered the PM reporter out of his press conference for the expose was eating crow, ordering state police to investigate complaints, and appointing a committee to study anti-Semitism in Boston.

The New Republic says: "Every well-informed observer knows that much of Boston's anti-Semitism has grown up because of the laxity, if not the connivance, of many highly placed individuals, clerical and lay." But neither fear of this sinister power nor of opposing the wishes of official Jewry kept PM from taking the go signal for its revelations on the anti-Semitic situation. No doubt both of these fears had acted as a check on the Boston press, a fact for which the Jews must take part blame, since for months not a word had appeared in the local newspapers on the organized campaign of the Christian Front hoodlums. The Jews were a party to the suppression of news so that the state of affairs in Dorchester, where Jews are afraid to go out at night, was not generally known.

Had they not acted on a hush-hush policy, exposure to light and air need not have waited for PM to do the trick. They had no right to block that exposure particularly since the condition to which they tried to blind themselves is so grave and so full of meaning to all their fellow citizens and far beyond the environs of Dorchester. Open and violent attack on the Jews, systematic, organized, mysteriously financed, and allowed by the police and ignored by the Governor carries the Nazi stamp imprinted by native Fascists.

Ugly and disturbing as it is to those who suffer from it and to those who recognize its fullest intentions, violence against the Jews can be turned to good social account when taken as a warning. It speaks urgently now from Boston to all patriots, even as far as Canada. They should not rest until they have made it hard sledding for all inciters to violence at the direction of others who have something bigger in mind against the national freedom and security. f.i.e.

Danish Jewish Refugees Are Danes

The New York Times says:

An appeal for Danish refugees in Sweden is announced by the National America Denmark Association, of which Jean Hersholt is president. C. H. W. Hasselriis, national chairman of the fund which is to be raised, describes the situation in words worth quoting in full:

"We are reliably informed that some 8,000 Danes have escaped to Sweden, the oldest 75 years, the youngest 3 months of age. The Swedish Government and the Swedish people offered them haven and have done magnificently by them. A large proportion are Danes of Jewish descent. But Danes do not make any distinction; only Nazis do that. Danish Jews are intimately integrated with Denmark socially and culturally."

Most of us did not need to be reminded that Denmark was one of the most civilized countries on earth, but here is the reminder. The Danes in Denmark would care for their own people, of whatever religion, if they could. We can honor them by taking over a part of the task for them.

The Swedes Gave Sanctuary To All

By Julius Mortimer, in The New York Herald Tribune

How this war has strengthened the natural bond between the three Scandinavian countries was illustrated by the welcome extended by Sweden to the Danish refugees escaping from Nazi terrorism and deportation.

Of the more than six thousand men, women and children who, at the peril of their lives, managed to get across the water separating Sweden from Denmark, the majority were Jews. But many were of other faiths. Without distinction as to religious beliefs, the Swedes gave sanctuary to all.

In aiding these refugees Sweden exposed herself to the wrath of the Nazis who, in unveiled language, let it be known that they considered it ill-advised for a neutral nation to go out of its way to offend "a friendly country." As Hitler's organ, the "Voelkischer Beobachter," put it, "These Swedish insults will not be forgotten." But the Nazis should know by now that whatever apprehension may have existed in Sweden as to the Reich's military power no longer prevails, and to support this feeling Sweden has a standing army of 600,000 soldiers to give an answer to any sign of aggression against her soil.

[illegible] A. C. The Gothenburg Relief Workers Board visited Smogbacken Castle, located in the Province of Skaane in southwest Sweden, as a reception centre for the refugees, and here they were furnished with food, shelter and clothing, for in many instances they had fled scantily clad. This organization is under the supervision of the Swedish government, and its head, Karl Hoejer, took charge from the moment the first refugees arrived. Besides Smogeholm Castle, Oerenaes Castle, north of Landskrona, has been prepared as a reception center and here the children receive special attention.

Public sentiment in Sweden is universally in sympathy with what the government is doing to furnish relief to the refugees. At a meeting of the Iron workers at Avesta support of the government's action was pledged. At a congress of the Civil Servant Organization in Stockholm similar expressions were made of ready aid. The students of the University of Goeteborg published a resolution in which they expressed deep indignation at the events in Denmark and commended the Swedish government for its offer of asylum.

Dr. S. E. Larson, vice-president of the Students Association of the University of Lund, said that "with abhorrence and exasperation we observe how the 'master of terror' has begun to practise his art across Oere Sound." Speaking for the teachers of the university, Professor Elmar Lodmadt declared that every form of support would be given all Danish refugee students.

Dean Olle Nystedt, in his sermon in the Stockholm Cathedral during the special services held in all Stockholm churches for the persecuted Danish Jews, declared that "those responsible for the bestial actions in Denmark have placed themselves outside the human community."

All Swedish railroads, government and private, offered free transportation to refugees who could find homes among friends or relatives. The City of Stockholm appropriated 100,000 kronor to the general relief fund. As for the Swedish press, it is as one in expressing its sympathy for the refugees and for the Danish newspapers which have been forbidden by the Nazi censorship to print a single word about the flight of the refugees or the reception accorded them in Sweden.

That the escape of thousands of Jews to Sweden has not made it easier for those who were unable to get away may be taken for granted. This is the more tragic since the arrival in Denmark of Kurt Daluege, who, is Himmler's right hand, brought with him a reputation for brutality in Czechoslovakia as the successor to the murdered Heydrich. Daluege was sent to Denmark evidently to give force to the persecution of the Jews and supervise the deportations. Little wonder that suicides increased with his arrival.

It is stated on good authority that neither General Hermann von Hannaken, the head of the occupational troops, nor Dr. Werner Best, the special representative of Hitler, were favorable at first to the drastic action instituted in Denmark, but that it was Hitler himself who demanded it when it was found to be impossible to find representative Danes to form a new government after the introduction of martial law.
